CROWE NAMED AS KEYNOTE SPEAKER FOR NEW JERSEY PMI SYMPOSIUM

Atlanta – April 2, 2007 –Velociteach Founder and CEO, Andy Crowe, was named keynote speaker for the 2007 New Jersey Project Management Institute Symposium. The New Jersey PMI chapter is the world’s second largest chapter.

Crowe, who authored books on the PMP and CAPM Exams, also wrote Alpha Project Managers (© 2006, Velociteach Press). He has been touring North America, promoting project management.

In 2005 and 2006, Crowe organized and led the Alpha Study, which focused on the practices of the top 2% of project managers. “Since the book was published, I have been fortunate enough to meet and study project managers who are not only improving at their work, but they are actually getting better at getting better,” Crowe said. “That fits in really well with the symposium topic of Sustainability in Project Management, and I’m very excited about sharing those observations with the attendees.”

The New Jersey PMI chapter expects a crowd of 800 attendees at this year’s symposium.

Velociteach is an Atlanta based company passionate about the dissemination of best practices in project management. Their project management training classes, combined with books and e-learning platform, InSite, lead the industry in innovation and results.
